

THE CSP RULES

v1.3

- Just because you can buy it, doesn't mean you should buy it. Slow down. Follow the rules.
- I'm not putting more than 10% of my portfolio into a single buy.
- I have verified the contract address is correct before the initial buy.
- I have researched the project and know the basics of the tokenomics of this coin.
- I have loaded up the token address in a chart and have looked at the past 48 hours of trade volume.
- I am using a bot to monitor trades and sells.
- If the token is brand new, has it had at least a 50% increase since launch? Ok to enter trade with 10% stop loss.
- If the token is new and on a steady increase has it increased 200% without more than a 50% correction? Ok to enter trade with 10% stop loss
- If the token has increased more than 200% (2x) , set a 5% trailing buy order for 80% of the price at the lowest sell candle.
- If the token is following a "Wave" of at least 100% with at least 2 cycles ok to enter 5% trailing buy order at the lowest price of the last lowest candle.
- After token buy, adjust the stop loss in your bot as price increases at least 10% below current price until you are more than break-even. You can keep increasing the stop loss as the coin increases.
- Take your profits out at any point you see fit keeping in mind fees and slippage. If the coin is pumping fast it's recommended to take initial investment out at 200% (2x). If the price is in a wave and doesn't break out after 3 trades sell at the with a trailing 5% sell.
- Take profits at your level of acceptance. 50% to 100% is good. 100%+ is better. Consider leaving a percentage to Moonbag
